

Dear Members, Colleagues, Friends of AIC,

On my own behalf and in the name of the whole 2020-2021 AIC Executive Council, I am Pleased to present our 22nd Annual Congress to be held in Bologna from 7 to 9 May 2020. The Congress program offers an all-round view of the tooth with an update on all options for preserving individual teeth and therapeutic options available for their replacement where this is not possible.

Friday will take us on a journey from the root apex to the tooth cusp apex. Starting from the endodontic aspect, we will look at methods of preserving pulp vitality even in extreme cases, how to instrument canals more conservatively when vitality is lost and how to decide between traditional endodontic measures and surgery when re-treating a tooth with an apical lesion.

We will then move on to periodontal and restorative aspects, defining how to treat deep margins and make our restoration biologically correct and long-lasting, how to evaluate residual structures to ensure a successful partial adhesive restoration and, where this is not feasible, when to opt for a full coverage restoration as the only remaining option. At all times, we will follow the conservative approach that is in the AIC's DNA, i.e. preferring the rational choice - based on clinical data and findings in the literature - of preserving the natural tooth rather than ending up with a "soulless tooth".

On Saturday we will offer a complete overview of the most varied restorative options for a missing or lost single anterior or posterior tooth, evaluating multidisciplinary surgical, orthodontic and restorative aspects.

We will again hold the "Lunch&Learn" sessions that have been so successful in the past and, as the icing on the cake, we have invited Professor Daniel Edelhoff, one of the greatest experts in the world of digital dentistry and materials, to join us this year. In his pre-congress course on Thursday he will explain how and when to use state-of-the-art restorative dentistry technologies to guarantee our patients top quality, long-lasting restorations, following the principles that have made the AIC a benchmark for the dental community.

Continue to support us as always ... and more than ever.

We look forward to meeting you!

Francesco Mangani

AIC President 2020-2021
